

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A computer system unaffected by memory module instability. The computer system writes data to a plurality of memory modules. If non-recoverable errors occur in one memory module or the number of errors in one memory module reaches a preset value, the computer system reads data from another memory module. Also, a method of controlling the memory modules is disclosed.